

The Master Session

The Taylor Images Master Session is a full production photoshoot designed to produce the very best images possible.

We will take extra time with you to discuss possible outfits and props as well as location and any other considerations that could affect the outcome of the shoot.

The shoot itself will consist of as many shots as are required to get the image we are after and then in post production we will not only retouch but will combine various images to make sure everyone is at their best.

The photo to the right is a composite of 9 different images so that each child has the pose and expression we were after.

All Master Session images are produced to provide a single picture suitable for wall hangings. In the course of the session there will be many other shots that will look great in multi or single desk frames.
